BURGESS SOISSON SIGNS AGREEMENT

Favorable to Consolidation With New Haven and Vote Is Assured.

SNYDERTOWN COMES IN, TOO.

Both Measures Passed By Town Council, Meet With Favorable Approval of Connellville Executive—Council Will Meet Tonight.

Burgess Soisson has signed the consolidation agreement and the last barrier in the path of the movement has been removed in order to permit the people to vote on this question at next month's election. Not that Burgess Soisson was an obstacle to the movement, for he was not. There was some uneasiness in certain quarters for fear he would attempt to delay the matter, but following his promise to settle the matter before tonight's meeting of Town Council, Mr. Soisson affixed his signature to the agreement last night.

As Burgess George A. Markle of New Haven has signed the agreement adopted by the New Haven Town Council, the matter will now go before the people next month for their verdict.

Burgess Soisson also signed the ordinance annexing the East Park addition and a portion of Snyderstown. He held off on this proposition for the purpose of giving the representatives an opportunity to present their side of the case, but the petition to this effect never materialized. Nearly 85 acres are added to the borough as a result of this most recent annexation and the population of the town will be increased some 200, by a conservative estimate.

Town Council will hold its regular mid-month session this evening and a full attendance is anticipated, with the possible exception of Councilman James B. Millard, who is on the sick list. The members who held office during the past few weeks have expressed their intention of being on hand tonight. Routine business will be transacted and a good bit of this has been up since the last regular session. It is likely that the suit of the Combination Lumber Company against the borough will be discussed at length. It is scheduled for trial on Wednesday.

AUDITOR SCHENCK GETS WRONG SATCHEL

Passenger in Pittsburgh Station Gets Bundle of Papers and Auditor Bunch of Dirty Clothes.

C. W. Schenck, general auditor of the West Penn, with offices in Pittsburgh, attended the weekly staff meeting here this morning bemoaning the loss of a satchel containing valuable papers which was picked up in the Union Station, Pittsburgh, just before Mr. Schenck boarded the train for Connellville.

The man taking Schenck's satchel left one behind that looked like it. When Mr. Schenck opened the valise he found, instead of his important documents, a few pieces of dried beef and other state food, including half a loaf of bread.

The only satisfaction the General Auditor has as a consequence of the affair is that he is a lot better than some at all. That's what Superintendent J. W. Brown says about it, anyway.

COHEN PROMISES BORITZ TO BE GOOD.

Action of Assault and Battery Is Dropped After Case Is Called and Testimony Given.

Philip Cohen, a well known young man of town was given a hearing last evening before Judge P. M. Buttermore of New Haven on a charge of assault and battery made by Jacob Boritz of New Haven. Cohen was alleged to have assaulted Boritz yesterday morning and gave him a severe beating. Boritz also alleged that for the past few days Cohen has been following him about and causing him a great deal of annoyance. The case was adjourned until Cohen promises to give Boritz no more trouble.

HELLEN BUYS CORLEY HOTEL PROPERTY.

C. H. Corley Disposes of Property That Was Designed For High Class Eating House.

UNIONTOWN, Jan. 19.—Announcement was made yesterday of the sale of the Hotel Corley, on East Main street, by C. H. Corley to W. H. Hellen, the well known hotel man. The deal was closed yesterday and the consideration named is $75,000, or something over $5,000 per foot front. This probably establishes a new record for Main street frontage, although the building is quite new, having been completed about a year ago, and represents a fair share of the investment. The lot is 18x150 feet to Front street. The price includes the fixtures and furnishings.

Mr. Hellen stated last night that he will take possession of the property on February 1. He will immediately begin the making of extensive alterations especially on the first and second floors, preparatory to applying for a license there at the approaching license court. More than likely the name will be changed.

Since the retirement of Mr. Hellen from the McClelland Hotel, of which he was part owner for some years, he has been living on his farm some distance from town. It is his intention to move his family to Uniontown.

KEIRAN DID NOT GO BACK TO NEW YORK.

Although High Finance Man Was Expected The Police Have Not Noted His Arrival.

United Press Telegram.
NEW YORK, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Patrick J. Keiran for whom the police of every city of the country have been searching since December 5, because of his alleged swindling of Catholic Churches and institutions, and his high financial methods in managing the Fidelity Funding Company, and who surrendered to the Pittsburgh police last night, did not arrive here this morning as he told the police he would do.

Keiran was released on bail and said he was going to New York and settle up his affairs. He declared he would pay dollar for dollar, every just debt he owed.

BIG COAL TRACT BOUGHT.

Pittsburg Company Pays $675,000 for 4,000-Acre Tract.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 19.—It is reported that negotiations were closed last night by which the Kennerly Coal Company of this city, transferred its holdings in the Bens Creek Valley, Somerset county, to interests supposed to represent the United Coal Company of Pittsburgh.

The tract comprises about 4,000 acres, and the purchase price is given as $675,000, representing a profit to the Kennerly Company of about $250,000 over the price paid for the land a few years ago.

Overman Re-Elected.
RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 19.—Loss S. Overman was formally re-elected U. S. Senator, by the Legislature today.

PAUR COMING TO CONNELLVILLE.

Music Lovers Here Are Trying to Secure a Date With Pittsburgh Orchestra.

ARRANGEMENTS UNDER WAY.

S. F. Hood and Others are Now Awaiting Definite Announcement from Management—Popular Prices Will Be Arranged for Occasion.

Music lovers in Connellville may have the pleasure of hearing Emil Paur's famous Pittsburgh Orchestra if the plans of S. F. Hood and others are carried out. Negotiations are already under way to have Director Paur bring his mammoth organization to the Soisson at some future date and indications are that these will be terminated successfully.

The idea originated with Mr. Hood, who is greatly interested in musical matters, and he in turn called the attention of J. L. Rodriguez and others to the matter. They were naturally elated over the idea and immediately began negotiations with the management of the Pittsburgh orchestra.

Although no definite word has been received from the Pittsburgh people, Mr. Hood expects to hear from them within a few days. It is understood that Mr. Paur is willing to bring his immense company to Connellville and the matter of a date is practically the only matter left to be decided upon.

In addition to an exceptionally large orchestra, Director Paur also carries a number of soloists. The organization is not only well known and greatly appreciated in Pittsburgh, but has achieved fame in the principal cities of the United States.

Under the present plans of the promoters of the idea, it is proposed to bring the orchestra here at prices which will be within reach of all. It is likely that for each dollar subscribed towards the performance, one ticket will be issued. Dollar seats for an attraction like the Pittsburgh Orchestra would be unusually reasonable.

NEW YORK STEEL ELECTS ITS DIRECTORS.

Davidsons Have Prominent Place on the Board of Big Independent Corporation.

BUFFALO, Jan. 19.—The following have been elected directors of the New York State Steel Company for the ensuing year: Spencer Kellogg, John D. Larkin and Seymour H. Knox of Buffalo, Frederick N. Beagle of Beaver Falls, Pa.; George Davidson of New Brighton, Pa.; Louis R. Davidson of Beaver, Pa. and Frederick Davidson of Pittsburgh.

The following officers of the company were also elected: Frederick N. Beagle, President; Frederick Davidson, Vice President; Louis R. Davidson, Secretary and Treasurer. The executive committee will consist of Frederick N. Davidson, Spencer Kellogg and Louis H. Davidson.

The company, under the new management, will proceed immediately to complete the blast furnace now well under way. The open-hearth steel plant was completed some time ago and successfully operated. It is safe to assume that in the course of the next few months the New York State Steel Company will be in full operation.

The out-of-town directors are men who have had many years' experience in the steel business and all are connected with the Union Drawn Steel Company of Beaver Falls, Pa. They likewise are the owners of a company of the same name at Hamilton, Ont.

Both companies are engaged exclusively in the manufacture of steel. The company has distributing agencies and offices in many of the principal cities of the United States, as well as in London, Paris and Berlin.

The facilities which the Union Drawn Steel Company has for the sale and distribution of its products will be of immense help to the reorganized New York State Steel Company, both in the manufacturing and marketing of its products.

The company will continue to operate its own ore mines in Minnesota, thus giving it a basis of supply that should put it upon more than equal footing with most of the steel manufacturing concerns of the United States.

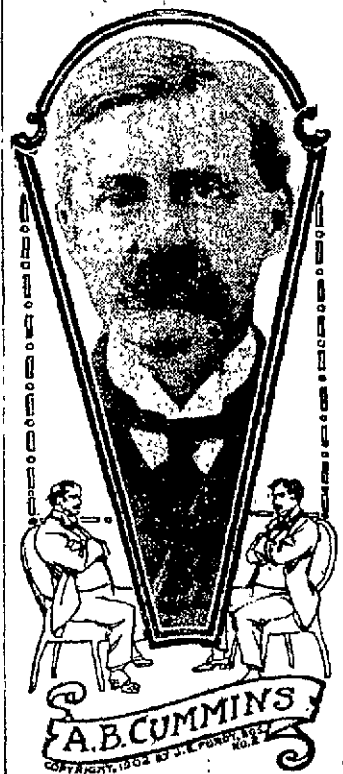

The interests of Buffalo will be greatly promoted by the rehabilitation of the plant and its again resuming operations.

The new officers of the New York State Steel Company are men of wide experience, having large interests in steel, coal and banking interests in Western Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, British Columbia, Mexico, Canada and elsewhere.

CUMMINS ELECTED.

Iowa Chooses United States Senator Without Holding a Caucus.

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 19.—(Special.)—For the first time in the history of Iowa a United States Senator was elected without a party caucus and

"SQUIRE" DUNPHY DEAD AT SPRINGFIELD.

Former Well Known Frick Company Official—Passed Away in Ohio Town.

James P. Dunphy, aged 57 years, familiarly known throughout the Connellville region as "Squire" Dunphy, died at his home in Springfield, O., last Saturday of congestion of the brain. Mr. Dunphy became known as "Squire" while employed at the Frick plant of the Frick Coke Company, at the Dock City, where he was elected Justice of the Peace.

Mr. Dunphy was for years a well known man in the region. He came to this section as a young man and went to work at various plants. He was an able man in the handling of labor and speedily secured advancement to several important positions. For many years he acted as Superintendent of the old Hazlet plant of the Frick Coke Company and later as "Squire" Dunphy, at the Dock City plant of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, remaining in that position for four years.

He was employed in responsible positions at the Trotter works of the same company and for a time was Acting Superintendent of that big operation, relieving Superintendent P. J. Tormay temporarily. The deceased was also Superintendent for the Weaver Coal & Coke Company of West Virginia in his later years and at the time of his death occupied the place of purchasing agent and material man for the Vandavia Coal Company, a large Indiana concern. The remains were interred at Springfield. News of his death came as a shock to his many former associates and friends in the region.

BASE BALL SPIRIT NOT IN EVIDENCE.

Although Meeting Was Called For Last Night No One Attended. Some Spectators Present.

Although a meeting of the baseball enthusiasts was called at the Smith House last evening none of the magnates were on hand. A. A. Straub, who is something of an enthusiast over diamond matters, returned last evening from a visit away from town and knew nothing of the meeting. A few spectators were in the neighborhood but there was nothing doing so far as the meeting was concerned.

FIRE NOW RAGING.

Is Completing the Destruction of the City of Messina Today.

MESSINA, Jan. 19.—(Special.)—Fire which broke out early today is sweeping through the ruins of the city. There is but little water to be had and no open spaces to check the progress of the fire.

Among the ruins already burned in the city is the City Hall and Bank of Italy. A vast amount of treasure remaining in the wreckage will undoubtedly be lost.

JUSTICES' WHEELS CEASE TURNING.

Hand of Death Stays Herd Trial and None Other Is In Readiness.

MATERIAL WITNESS ABSENT.

Brother of Jefferson A. Dewitt of Connellville Dying at Oakland and Plaintiff Could Not Proceed—Other Court News.

UNIONTOWN, Jan. 19.—The wing of Angel of Death called a halt to the Herd case this morning and as a consequence the wheels of the Justice mill ceased grinding this morning owing to the absence of any other case which could be tried.

When the jurors in the suit of the Herd heirs against the Baltimore & Ohio railroad took their places in the box this morning attorneys for the plaintiffs arose and announced that a material witness, J. A. Dewitt of Connellville, had been called to Oakland, Md., last night as his brother was dying. For this reason the plaintiffs could not continue the case and Mr. Dewitt's knowledge of the Herd property, before and after the alleged damage was done, was needed by them to continue the case.

Nothing was left but to discharge the jury and postpone the case indefinitely. No other case was ready but efforts were made to advance one on the calendar and try it this afternoon. There are 65 traverse jurors in Uniontown but as yet only one case has been called.

A divorce was granted Pearl M. Stoye of Brownsville from Albert Stoye, her husband, on grounds of desertion. Stoye is the man who said he did not care to be tied down to any particular place and immediately went elsewhere.

The wife of John Shovel has applied for an order for an allowance of $2 a week for the support of her four children. Mrs. Shovel is the wife of John Shovel, upon whose person $580 was found at Dixonport after he had been there as a pauper.

Three liquor license applications were filed this morning. George G. Gans of Uniontown applied for a distillers license while retail licenses are asked for by Mrs. Mary O'Hara of the Second Ward, Connellville, and Frank Myford of Belverton.

The will of the late Albert T. Weltz of Dunbar township was filed this morning, leaving all his property to his wife until the youngest of his eight children reaches the age of 21. At that time the real estate is to be sold and the proceeds divided equally among the widow and children.

PARK EXTENSION AT THIS SESSION.

Probable That $2,000,000 Will Be Appropriated to Beautify State Grounds.

United Press Telegram.
HARRISBURG, Jan. 19.—There is a strong probability that the present Legislature will authorize the extension of Capitol Park. Members of the Senate and House are generally in favor of the project and today Senator Penrose declared he was unequivocally for it.

The principal argument used against the extension in previous sessions was that the State could not afford to spend the money. Senator Penrose says the State is abundantly able now to undertake the work. Senator Fox of Dauphin will introduce the Capitol Park extension bill. It will appropriate $2,000,000 to be expended at the rate of $500,000 a year for the purchase of 13 acres of land in the heart of the city lying between Walnut and North streets and the present eastern line of the Capitol Park and the Pennsylvania railroad.

This extension will give the passengers on the Pennsylvania railroad a view of the Capitol for the entire length of the park.

The committee appointed by the Board of Public Grounds has appraised the property extension at $1,801,450.

Being Held In Jail.
Mike Napoli, suspected of assaulting Joe Elise yesterday morning with a slittet, was taken to jail yesterday afternoon where he will be held until the victim of the murderous attack is able to appear against him. Harry Rosenberg, who was attacked by two foreigners some time ago, said this morning that Napoli did not answer the description of either of the men who assaulted him.

ROOT ELECTED SENATOR.

Chosen to Succeed Platt By New York Legislators.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 19.—As required by the federal law, the two Houses of the Legislature of the State of New York met here today in separate session to vote for a successor to Thomas

ELIHU ROOT.

C. Platt, United States Senator from this State.

The votes today were merely confirmatory of the choice of the caucuses of the Republicans of the two Houses. Elihu Root, Secretary of State, tomorrow the two Houses will meet in joint session, according to law, and vote together for Mr. Root, who will then be declared Senator from New York for the six years' term commencing on March 4, next.

New York's new Senator is one of the country's leading lawyers.

MIDNIGHT RAID ON DAVIDSON OVENS.

Thirteen Negroes Rounded Up But Not the One Wanted Found in The Bunch.

The arrival of an officer from Luray, Va., in search of a missing negro resulted in a midnight raid upon the coke ovens last night and subsequent arrest of 13 negroes, all charged with vagrancy. They made a merry looking crowd when arraigned before Burgess Soisson in police court this morning.

The man wanted from Luray was not among their number but there were some bad looking characters in the crowd. Chief of Police Rottler will make a charge of vagrancy against the bunch before a local Justice of the Peace. The officers have been receiving complaints concerning the number of petty robberies and begging that is going on about town and are determined to break up the practice.

All of the men arraigned before the Burgess said they were looking for work except Joe Mosley of Irwin, who admitted he was just "laying around."

Charles Smith of Gatesville, N. C., was released. He was janitor at the Marietta apartments but was discharged yesterday. Burgess Soisson ordered him to leave town. Some of the men had been in this neighborhood for several days but the police got J. H. Embank of Youngstown 15 minutes after he sought shelter in the ovens.

Y. M. C. A. TO MEET EAST END THURSDAY.

Local Quintet Will Try Hard to Add Another Game to the Already Long String.

Thursday night the Y. M. C. A. team will meet the East End team of Uniontown. The game will be played in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. The locals have so far won six out of seven games and will work hard to add another to their string.

The local five, while steadily improving, are a little weak at the center position. Harry Withers will most likely play center. With Thomas and Brickman as guards, Morton and Monroe as forwards and a strong center, including the services of Gutbrod and Wagoner, it will take a mighty good team to defeat the Y. M. C. A.

Next Thursday the Y. M. C. A. team will play the High School at the gymnasium. The Association team won the first game by a comparatively small margin and the High School boys will try hard to turn the tables.

MORE EARTHQUAKES.

Disturbances Are Noted in Smyrna and Neighboring Towns.

SMYRNA, Jan. 19.—(Special.)—Heavy earthquakes occurred here and in neighboring towns today, causing considerable loss to property and several are reported dead. Chocoma and Memtee are known to have suffered damage. The details are meagre. The battleships Louisiana and Virginia are in the local harbor, but they were uninjured.

TWO FIRES VISIT ITALIAN QUARTER.

Caesaro Rotundo's House Was Totally Destroyed This Morning.

OTHER BLAZE WAS SMALL.

Rumors Rife That Incendiaries Were at Work as Consequence of Recent Squabble But This Is Unlikely—Insurance Covers Both Losses.

Rumors of incendiaries are rife as the consequence of two fires in the Italian settlement along Carnegie avenue this morning, but these are given but little credence. Shortly before 2 o'clock this morning a blaze was discovered in the home of Caesaro Rotundo, in the rear of Carnegie avenue, and before the firemen could reach the scene the flames had gained much headway. The house was almost totally destroyed. It was fully covered by insurance.

About 9 o'clock this morning another fire was discovered in the same neighborhood when the double house owned by the Peter Soisson estate was found on fire. This is occupied by two Italian families. This fire was burning just under the roof and was quickly extinguished before great damage was done. There is some insurance on this building.

As a consequence of the quarrel among the two factions of Italians, arson has been insinuated, but this seems improbable.

In Rotundo's house the fire apparently originated in an upstairs room, but there was no one in the building at the time. Reports that Rotundo and his son perished in the flames was hailed as a canard this morning when the missing boy appeared and said his father was still in Pittsburgh. Adjoining buildings were threatened before the fire was under control.

In the second fire, the blaze started under the roof and was confined to a small area by the firemen. This is the second time in the past few months that this house has been on fire and each time the blaze originated in the same place.

JAMISON COMPANY BUILDING MORE OVENS.

Work Now Under Way on Completion of a Block of 120 Begun Last Year.

The Jamison Coal & Coke Company continues to add to its already enormous equipment for the production of coke. The company is now beginning work on the completion of an addition of 120 ovens which was begun last year. 60 ovens finished last fall. All of these ovens will be of the "beehive" type, will be fired as soon as they are ready.

The Jamison company is one of the few coke manufacturing concerns which have been but little affected by the prevalent hard times, having a market for all the coke that they can produce. The company's output of coke in 1907 was 540,000 tons and in 1908 the tonnage was practically the same. The same ratio was maintained also in coal production.

The coke market at this time is rather dull, but the Jamison company is preparing for increased output. Fullness of the market is largely due to over-production during the past few months by concerns which did not have a certain market and counted too strongly on the hoped-for return of prosperity.

HUSBAND KILLS SELF.

Finding That His Wife Can Live But a Short Time Man Takes His Life.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 19.—(Special.)—When informed at the hospital this morning that his wife could live but an hour, Michael Bigler, aged 44 left the institution and went to the cellar of his home where he was later found dead with a bullet in his brain, about the time Bigler's wife died at the hospital.

In Social Circles.

Italian Musicals.
One of the most delightful musical programs rendered here for some time was at an Italian musicale given last evening in the Carnegie Free Library hall by the Woman's Culture Club. The large and appreciative audience was composed of music lovers from Conneltsville and vicinity who showed their appreciation of the excellent work of the performers by their generous applause. This year the club is studying Italian literature and last evening was set aside for an Italian musicale to be given under the direction of the music committee composed of Mrs. William Rogers, Miss Pearl Kock, Miss Elizabeth Allen Brown, Miss Florence Goldsmith, Mrs. Gilbert and Miss Ella Byers.

A very fine paper on prominent Italian composers and operas beautifully illustrated by orchestral, vocal and instrumental selections, was read by Miss Florence Goldsmith. The paper showed very careful preparation and was thoroughly enjoyed. The first number was an orchestral selection, "Tanzoni," followed by a beautifully rendered piano solo, "Farewell," and instrumental from "Cavalleria Rusticana," Massengill, by Miss Jessie Rhodes. Miss Rhodes is one of Conneltsville's promising young musicians and her work last evening was above criticism. A vocal solo, "Matta Natta," by Miss Margaret Mae Richard, was well received. Miss Richard is the possessor of a very sweet and musical voice and her selection last evening gave her an opportunity to display her musical talent. Miss Florence Goldsmith delighted the audience with a piano solo, "The Treacherous," Verdi. Miss Goldsmith is greatly talented in music and her selection was one of the finest on the program. A piano solo, "Il Traviatore," by Miss Carson of Dawson was a pleasing number. Miss Margaret Brennan delightfully entertained the audience with a very well rendered recitation. Miss Brennan is an excellent student of ability and her work last evening was highly commended. A piano solo, "Dance and Serenade," Longo Spinnabell, by Miss Pearl Kock was well received. The next number was a vocal solo, "The Duetman's Song," by Warren Murrie. Miss Babbette Silverman of Pittsburgh rendered two piano solos in a very excellent manner. Miss Silverman's technique and execution was very fine. The closing number was a Sextet from "Lucia di Lammermoor," Donizetti. This was one of the pleasing numbers. Members of the Scottish and Mr. Pleasant clubs and of the Fortnightly club of Dunbar were present.

Card Party and Dance.

The Tyrone Club of Tyrone, Pa., was the scene of a large and beautifully arranged social function last evening when their new club room was thrown open for the first time to a large number of their friends. Rows, emulations, and smiles were profusely used in the hall room and the parlors, where progressive euchre and "500" were played until 11 o'clock when a delicious luncheon was served. The dainty prizes were awarded to Miss Mary Yahnke, Mrs. D. H. Shultz, John O'Brien and James Benson. The committee in charge was composed of S. W. Byrne, Dr. M. A. Noon and John O'Brien. About 70 couples were present. Miss Verma Clark of Conneltsville was an out of town guest present.

Enjoyable Concert and Dance.

Large and enjoyable was the band concert and dance held last evening in the Armory by the Tenth Regiment Band. The concert was from 8 until 9 o'clock, after which dancing followed. A very excellent program was beautifully rendered. Guests were present from Scottdale, Dunbar, Vanderbilt and Dawson.

AT THE SOISSON.

"Lena Rivers," which will be at the Soisson this evening, is an exceptionally high class attraction and will be seen next week at the Alvia Theatre, Pittsburg. It would seem as if many had read Mary J. Holmes' "Lena Rivers" and decided to see the play taken from between its covers. The comedy is said to be the best seen by the public this season. Since its production it has been praised as the best dramatization made in years and it produces in a marvellously faithful way all the principal scenes, characters and incidents of the book. Many of its scenes are described as extraordinarily funny. The company to be seen in the play is one of all-around cleverness.

HOME CURE FOR ECZEMA.

Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, Glycerine, Etc., Used as a Simple Wash. It really seems strange that so many people suffer year in and year out with eczema, when it is now no longer a secret that oil of wintergreen mixed with thymol, glycerine, etc., makes a wash that is bound to cure. Old, obstinate cases, it is true, cannot be cured in a few days, but there is absolutely no sufferer from eczema who ever used this simple wash and did not find immediately that wonderful soothing, calm, sensation that comes when the itch is taken away. Instantly upon applying a few drops of the wash the remedy takes effect, the itch is allayed. There is no need of experiment—the patient knows at once.

Instead of trying to compound the oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc., in the right proportions ourselves we are using a prescription which is universally found the most effective. It is known as the D. D. D. Prescription. It is made by the D. D. D. Co., of Chicago, and our long experience with this remedy has given us great confidence in its merits.

Find No Trace of Echard.

John Echard, well known in Conneltsville, the third man wanted in connection with the alleged killing of the Rinehart jury, continues to elude the authorities. Secret service detectives are still on his trail, but he seems to have disappeared entirely. United States District Attorney John W. Dunlop yesterday stated that he had a good clue and hoped to land his man within a short time.

Henry Krug Here.

Henry Krug of Marcus Hook, a prominent lumber dealer and well known in and about Conneltsville, spent a few hours with friends here last evening on route east. Mr. Krug was for some time engaged in the lumber business at Manorland, Md., the company later selling out to the J. L. Kendall Company. He is now extensively engaged in the lumber business throughout Virginia.

RUMMAGE SALE

Union Supply Comp'y Stores

We are going to every nook and corner in every one of our 63 stores. We are cutting down prices on everything upon which time has placed a ban. 1939 promises great things. A good housekeeper must have her house in order. A good storekeeper is a good commercial housekeeper, and part of the work of good storekeeping is keeping one's house in order. Or again, to use a different figure of speech—The stream of merchandise must be kept very clear, all the time; otherwise it will not be a pure stream. At all hazards and at all costs, the snags must be broken away, the banks cleared, and the current allowed to flow swiftly along from shore to shore. Rummage work is merely clearing the stream.

Rummage Sale in Every Department

The streams will all be cleared or purified in the boys' and children's clothing department. Just now we believe you will find the greatest bargains in the store. There are all sizes and styles, and the prices are within the reach of everybody's pocket-book.

TUESDAY EVENING, JAN. 19, 1909.

THE FINAL HEAT OF THE CONSOLIDATION RACE.

Consolidation is now up to the people.

The agreement concerning it between the Town Council of Connelville and New Haven has been duly executed with the approval of the Burgesses, and the voters will determine the question at the February election.

There is some opposition; there is always some opposition to progress; but the preponderating advantages of the proposition are so plain that they cannot be misunderstood by any citizen of ordinary intelligence; and it is evident that the far-seeing and public-spirited citizens of the towns are a unit for consolidation.

It is also quite possible that those who are opposed to consolidation now may experience a change of heart before the election if there is a proper illumination of the question. In the meantime, the Courier will endeavor to impart any information desired by the inquiring citizens.

While the success of the movement seems reasonably assured in spite of a liberal measure of pessimism and bluff, the friends of consolidation are advised that this is not a time to sit down and take a rest. This is the final heat, when every energy should be bent, to the end that the fruits of past labors shall not be lost.

Forget everything and remember Greater Connelville!

OBLIGATIONS AND ENJOYMENTS OF BEAUTIFUL SNOW.

The advent of snow has given rise to a couple of questions for better borough regulation and the attempt of the authorities to meet the questions properly is most commendable.

Burgess Soloson has directed the police to see that the ordinance requiring citizens to keep their sidewalks clear of snow and ice is enforced and to put a stop to the practice of snow-balling on the streets.

The sidewalk cleaning ordinance has been largely a dead-letter. It should be made effective especially in the business portion of the town. Enterprising business men do not have to be reminded of their duty in this regard; others should be given a gentle reminder. In the suburbs the task of keeping sidewalks clear of snow and ice at all times is rather difficult because of the lack of help and the size of the job. The matter is one which calls for the exercise of wise discretion.

But there can be no discretion about the prohibition of snowballing on the principal thoroughfares. The number of serious accidents due directly to this usually innocent sport has rendered it necessary to prohibit it.

The Beautiful Snow brings its obligations as well as its enjoyments.

Burgess Soloson rounds out his exceptionally fine record as the Chief Executive Officer of Connelville by placing himself on record as a member of the Party of Progress.

He has attached his approval to the Consolidation agreement and the Snydertown annexation ordinance. He considered both with characteristic care and when his approval was attached it was without any reservation. His action is especially gratifying to friends of the Greater Connelville movement because of a persistent rumor that he would not approve the expansion policy.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE

For the increased School Tax in Connelville Borough?

(Communicated.)

During the past ten days there has been considerable discussion as to the cause of increasing the school millage. The writer has investigated the matter quite thoroughly and finds that the parties attempting to make this matter an issue at the approaching primary and election, are themselves the very persons most responsible for the chaotic financial condition of this borough in years past.

No School Board in the history of Connelville found worse financial conditions than that which entered upon its duties June 1, 1908. The retiring board was the most reckless in expenditure and exonerations in the memory of our oldest citizens. What it feared to do in the open it went behind closed doors where the public and newspaper men were for hidden or refused entrance. And foremost among those who are charging the present board with improper appropriation of funds and the unnecessary raising of the school millage is W. S. Schenk, President of the retiring board, whose son is a candidate for office. Of course he has an axe to grind, as usual. The reader will please take careful note of the following:

In 1904, W. S. Strawn was tax collector of Connelville with Title and Trust Company of Western Pennsylvania as bondsmen. Strawn defaulted and the School Board demanded settlement from the bondsmen. Settlement was deferred from time to time until Schenk became President of the board, when on April 6, 1908, with Directors Scheuch, Holt, Shupe, Harrison, Howard, Duin and O'Connor present the following resolution was offered and unanimously carried: "Howard moved, seconded by Harrison, that exonerations requested by Title and Trust Company on Strawn duplicate for 1901 amounting to $1,587.76 be allowed."

Immediately after the passing of the above resolution demand was made for payment of the 1904 balance, but the matter was allowed to pass over until a special meeting held April 21, 1908, to take up and decide this question. Some citizens were present at that meeting and an adjournment was taken to some future evening. Squire Frank Miller's office where a secret meeting was held April 27, 1908, (just before the present board came into office) with all directors present except Holt. Schenk was in the chair. On motion of Shupe, seconded by Howard, the following carefully prepared resolution was offered and passed unanimously:

Whereas after mature and careful investigation by the School Board of the Borough of Connelville it has been made to appear that the amount of $4,281.95 on duplicate of school taxes for year 1904 is either already paid or for various reasons uncollectable and whereas the Title and Trust Company of Western Pennsylvania, bondsmen for W. S. Strawn, tax collector for said year has requested that it be allowed to settle up in full the said duplicate and whereas the said bondsmen has offered $250.00, being the deducting the aforesaid amount, $4,281.95 balance due on said duplicate after deducting the aforesaid amount, $4,281.95 as full settlement.

Now be it resolved that the amount, $4,281.95 be and the same is hereby allowed as exonerations in full for the year 1904 and that on payment of the sum of $250 the said W. S. Strawn, collector, and the said Title and Trust Company of Western Pennsylvania, bondsmen, be released and discharged from any and all further liability on or by reason of the said duplicate and that the said duplicate be closed. And in the face of that kind of lobbying the people some of these same men now have the brazen audacity to charge others with misappropriating public funds. Will the reader ask what the exonerations were for 1901? What is the use of having bondsmen if directors so far forget their duty to the public? Now mind you this same crowd is making a desperate attempt to regain power by filling the various offices with their henchmen as was the case in 1908.

To help the reader along the writer to give exonerations as follows: 1902 $854.41 1903, $1,377.75 1905, $1,991.10 1906, $2,537.97 Compare these with the 1901 exonerations. Another matter being circulated by this same crowd is the assertion that the millage was increased on account of case in teachers salaries. This is a fabrication from the whole cloth as the records show. The monthly salary of teachers for 1907 and 1908 was $253 while for the same service and the same positions this year $2,923.50 is being paid, or a reduction of $24.30 per month. The teachers salaries were readjusted, not increased. The school records are public documents and may be seen upon request by any citizen of the borough.

No Caucus Precedes Senatorial Election Today.

HOSKINS MAY BE DEFEATED

Notwithstanding He Won the Republican Nomination at Popular Primary Election—Insurgent Republicans and Democrats May Combine.

Springfield Ill., Jan. 10.—There will be no Republican caucus before the casting of the first ballot for United States senator today in the house and senate separately. Friends of Senator Albert J. Hopkins of Aurora maintain he is the only accredited candidate before the Republican members of the legislature having received a plurality of votes over his competitors at the primary election. This primary election takes the place of a caucus they contend. But the adherents of Senator Hopkins will probably call a gathering of all Republican legislators to consider the senatorship tonight or tomorrow should the first ballot fail to select a senator.

Headquarters for Senator Hopkins was opened in the St. Nicholas hotel. A barrel of apples was opened and a welcome was extended to all who stayed inside. Next door the Democratic minority opened headquarters for Lawrence B. Stringer, Democratic candidate for the toga.

The Hopkins leaders expect the members of the two houses to vote according to their primary election instructions on the first ballot for senator. Of the 125 Republican members in the house and the senate 78 are said to be instructed for Senator Hopkins. 10 for Congressman Foss and 9 for William E. Mason.

President Roosevelt Makes Address at Jubilee Mass Meeting

Washington, Jan. 10.—Introduced by Bishop Cranston as the apostle of the square deal, President Roosevelt, in an address at the African diamond jubilee mass meeting, held in the Metropolitan Memorial M. E. church, which the late President McKinley attended, declared that he would not come before a Methodist gathering if he had not attempted to give the square deal.

"In addition to the square deal in our own country," he continued, "I want the Methodists and others to help me give the 'square deal' to Japan. I will see to it that in doing this our own citizens are protected."

"I am not a sentimentalist. I am not afraid of invading the 'big ocean' whenever it may be necessary. Our national government has reached an agreement with Japan by which there can be a satisfactory solution to every question which may be at issue between the United States and Japan."

Before delivering his prepared address the president declared, that after having heard the address given by Bishop Hartwell he would have thought that he was plagiarizing if he had not prepared his address a week or more ago.

After concluding the president shook hands with Bishop Cranston, who exclaimed: "This is the true union of church and state not organic relationship but to stand hand in hand, heart to heart eye to eye for the uplift of humanity."

The president declared that the Methodists of the country had been an inspiration to him during the seven and a half years of his presidency.

The negro is said to have spoken insultingly to a woman clerk in Haines Bros. store.

The Round-Up

A Romance of Arizona

Novelized from Edmund Day's Melodrama
By JOHN MURRAY and MILLS MILLER

Copyright, 1908, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

"He tried to call me. I saw his lips move, framing my name. Dragging himself to his feet, he came toward me with his arms outstretched. Then another form appeared between us, fighting to keep him back. They fought there under the burning sun in the hot dust of the desert until at last one was crushed to earth. The victor raised his face to mine, and it was Jack."

Echo buried her face in her hands. Her sobs shook her bosom. Awe-stricken, Polly gazed at the overwrought wife.

"Phew!" she laughed to shake off her fright. "That was a sure enough nightmare. If I'd a dream like that I'd wake up the whole house rattling like a coyote."

As the commonplace ever intrudes upon the unusual, so a knock on the door relieved the tension of the situation. It was Slim. He did not wait for an invitation to enter, but, opening the door, asked, "Can I come in?"

"Come, come in," cried Polly, glad to have any excuse to shake off the depression of Echo's dream.

"Howdy, Mrs. Payson? Just come over to see Jack," was the jolly sheriff's greeting.

"He's down at the corral," she informed him.

Mrs. Allen hurried in from the kitchen at this moment, calling, "Echo, come here and look at this here cake. It looks as if it had been set on."

Echo closed the lid of the piano and called her mother's attention to the presence of Slim Hoover.

"Howdy, Mr. Hoover? You might have left some of that dust outside."

The sheriff was greatly embarrassed by her children in his ride from Florence to the Sweetwater alkali and said stirred up by the hoots of the horses had settled on his hat and overcoat so freely that his clothing had assumed a neutral gray tone, above which his sun tanned face and red hair looked like the moon in a fog. Josephine's scolding drove him to brush his shoulders with his hat, raising a cloud of dust about his head.

"Stop it!" Mrs. Allen shouted shrilly. "Slim Hoover, if your brains were dynamite you couldn't blow the top of your head off."

Polly was greatly amused by Slim's encounter with the cleanly Mrs. Allen. Slim stood with open mouth, watching Mrs. Allen flounce out of the room after Echo, who was trying in vain to suppress her laughter. Turning to Polly, he said, "Ain't seen you in some time."

Slim was thankful that the girl was seated at the table with her back to him. Somehow or other he found he could speak to her more freely when she was not looking at him.

"That's so?" she challenged. "Come to the birthday?"

"Not regular," he answered. Polly glanced at him over her shoulder. The look was too much for Slim. He turned away to hide his embarrassment. Fairly recovering from his confusion, he coughed preparatory to speaking. But Polly had vanished. As one looks, sheepishly for the magician's disappearing coin, so Slim gazed at floor and ceiling as if the girl might pop up anywhere. Spying an empty chair behind him, he sank into it gingerly and awkwardly.

Meanwhile Polly returned with a brown and began sweeping out the evidences of Slim's visit. She spoke again.

"Get them holdups yet that killed 'Old Man Terrill'?" she asked.

"Not yet. But we had a new shootin' over'n our town yesterday."

Slim was doing his best to make conversation. Polly did not help him out very freely.

"That so?" was her reply.

"Spotted Taylor shot two Chinamen."

Polly's curiosity was aroused. "What for?" she asked, stopping her sweeping for a moment.

"Just to give the new graveyard a start," Slim chuckled.

"Is he dead?" It was the first Polly had heard of the passing away of one of the characters of the territory. She had expressed her surprise in the form of an interrogation, emphasizing the "he," a colloquialism of the south-west.

Slim, however, had chosen to ignore the manner of speech and, with a grin, answered: "Yess. That's why they buried him."

Polly laughed in spite of herself. "What did he die of?" she asked.

As Slim was about to take a drink at the table he failed to hear her. "Eh?" he grunted.

"What did he die of?" she repeated. "Five aces," was the sober reply of the sheriff before he drained the glass.

"Eh?" he grunted. "Five aces," was the sober reply of the sheriff before he drained the glass.

"Say, Miss Polly," he began. "If you've anything to say to me, Slim Hoover, just say it. I can't be bothered today—all the fixin's an' things," saucily advised the girl.

"Well, what I want to say is"— began the sheriff.

At this moment Bud Lane, laboring under heavy excitement, burst open the door.

"Say, Slim, you're wanted down at the corral," he cried, paying no heed to Polly.

"Shucks!" exclaimed the disappointed sheriff. "What's the row?"

"I don't know. Buck McKee, he's there with some of the Lutz K outfit. They want to see you."

Slim threw himself out of the door, with the mild expletive, "Damn the luck."

Bud turned quickly to Polly. "Did Jack pay off the mortgage last week?" he almost shouted at the girl.

Polly stamped her foot in anger at what seemed to her to be a totally irrelevant question to the love-making she expected. "How do I know?" she angrily replied. "If that is all you come to see me for you can go on 'n' ask him. It makes me so doggone mad!"

Polly, with flushed face and knitted brow, left the bewildered Bud standing in the center of the room asking himself what it was all about.

The sound of the voices of disputing men floated in from the corral. Bud heard them and comprehended its significance.

"It's all up with me!" he cried in mortal terror. "Buck McKee has stirred up the suspicion against Jack Payson. Jack paid off his mortgage, and they want to know where he raised the money. Well, Jack can tell. If he can't I'll confess the whole business. I won't let him suffer for me. Buck shan't let an innocent man hang for what he's done!"

The sound of footsteps on the piazza and the opening of the door drew Bud to take refuge in an adjoining room, where he could overhear all that was happening. He closed the door as the cowpunchers entered, with Slim at their head.

CHAPTER XII.

BUCK MCKEE had not been idle in the days following the slaying of "Old Man Terrill." Having learned that Slim and his posse had discovered the fact that the murder had ridden a paching horse to the ford, McKee took full advantage of this fact. In the cow camp, the barrooms and at the railroad station he hinted at first that a certain person every one knew could tell a lot more about the death of the old man than he cared to have known. After a few days he began to bring the name of Payson into the conversation. His gossip became rumor and then common report. When it became known that Jack had paid off the mortgage on his ranch Buck came out with the accusation that Payson was the murderer. Finding that he was listened to, Buck made the direct charge that Payson had killed the station agent and with the proceeds of the robbery was paying off his old debts.

Gathering his own men about him and being joined by the big hangers on who are to be found about every town, Buck led his party to the ranch on the Sweetwater to accuse Jack and so throw off in advance any suspicion which might attach to himself.

Fortunately Slim happened to be at Jack's ranch at the time. When he entered the corral he found Jack's accusers and defenders rapidly nearing a battle.

Jack was taking the charges coolly enough, as he did not know what support McKee had manufactured to uphold the charges he made. Slim informed McKee he would listen to what he had to say and if afterward he thought Jack guilty he would place him under arrest; for all concerned it would be better to go into the house. The Sweetwater boys surrounded Jack as they followed Slim into the living room. Lining up in opposing groups, Slim stood in the center to serve as judge and jury, with Buck and Jack at his right and left hand.

Inside the door Jack said "Keep as quiet as you can, boys. I don't want to alarm my wife. Now, what is it?" The punctured hushed their discussion of the charge and listened attentively to what the men most interested had to say.

"Well, darra it all," apologized the sheriff to Jack, "it's all darn fool business anyway. Buck here, he started it."

Jack smiled sarcastically and, glancing at McKee, remarked, "Buck McKee's started a good many things in his day."

Buck began to bluster. He could not face Jack fairly. Already placed on the defense when he had considered he would be the accuser McKee took refuge in the idea of being wronged by false suspicion.

"I ain't got," he whined, "to have folks suspicious me up any such doings as the killin' up 'Old Man Terrill. I got a witness to prove I wasn't in twenty miles up the place."

"Who's your witness?" asked Slim in his most judicial tones.

"Bud Lane. Me an' him rode over to the wedding together from the Lutz K, an' I was put out as not fit to be there, an' by that very man there that did the killin'."

The punctured had to grin in spite of the seriousness of the occasion. Buck appeared to be deeply hurt at the unceremonious way he had been left out at the feast.

"What makes you point to me as the man?" asked Jack quietly.

"You was late gettin' to yer own weddin'."

Frena could not repress his feelings any longer. He started angrily toward McKee, but Jack and Sagebrush held him back. The others were about to follow his lead when Slim motioned them back with the caution, "Keep out of this, boys!"

"I was late," explained Jack, "but I told you I rode around to the station to get a wedding present I ordered for my wife."

Jim interrupted him to substantiate the statement. Pointing to a desk, he said: "That's so. There it is, too—that there desk."

The Sweetwater outfit nodded in acquiescence, but the others looked incredulous.

Buck sneered at the defense which Jack made. "Nobody saw you over that way, did they?"

"I saw Terrill. It must have been just before he was killed. I didn't meet anybody else," Jack showed no trace of temper under the inquiry.

"Of course you saw him before he was killed—about a minute. Maybe he didn't plug him the next minute with a .44?"

The charge roused Sagebrush's fighting blood. Drawing his gun, he attempted to get a fair shot at the accuser. Frena and Show Low grabbed him by the arms, holding him back. The foreman shouted, "There'll be some one plugged right now if you all make another break like that!"

Slim waved his hands over his head, driving the men backward, as if he were shooting away a flock of chickens.

"Easy, now—easy," he drawled. "There ain't a soul to be nothin' doin' here 'cept law an' justice."

Buck laughed underlingly at the wavering of his men. He would have to do something to put more heart into them and regain the ground he had lost by his single handed conduct of the case.

"There ain't, eh?" he asked contemptuously. "Well, it's lucky I brought some of my own outfit with me."

"Mobbe you'll need them if you get too careless with your talk," answered the unruffled sheriff.

Turning to Jack, Slim said, "This fool thing can be settled with one word from you."

The young ranchman listened to the sheriff earnestly. He wished to clear himself forever of all suspicions. He did not want Echo ever to hear that there was a false impression abroad that she was the wife of a slayer.

"What is it?" he asked sharply. "Why, you paid off a mortgage of an even three thousand dollars last week, didn't you?"

"Yes. What has that to do with it?" he asked.

1309—The Lincoln Centenary—1909

"Little Farm That Raised a Man"

Memorial Museum Marks the Kentucky Birthplace of the Martyr President—The Old Log Cabin Restored

By James A. Edgerton

Copyright, 1908, by the American Press Association

THE little rocky farm that Thomas Lincoln was too poor to pay for has now become the property of the lovers of his son. When the new arrival reached the Lincoln cabin on Feb. 12, 1909, the last dream that could have entered the mind of the father was one comprehending the glory that had thus come to these barren acres. What shall the paws say when the Master moves it, or what can it know of the result of the move? Most parents think their sons may become presidents, except those whose sons actually do become presidents. They are frequently so poor they think little about it. The wind bloweth where it listeth, and a soul that comes into the world is blown by the wind of the spirit to what heights or depths it may please him who sends the wind. As for the rest of us, we cannot foresee one single human destiny, and it is just as well that we cannot. When we plant an acorn we know an oak will grow, and when we sow corn or wheat we know what the crop will be. But when a man-child enters the world we know naught of the harvest, whether it is to be of shame or of glory. There are no signs to tell of the coming of genius. The deity that presides at the birth of great souls may miss all the homes of wealth and culture to light at a stable or a cabin in the wilderness. The wind bloweth where it listeth, and none can tell where the spirit will carry the germ of God's purposes.

Lincoln was born on the very outer rim of civilization, yet the spot is now near the center of population of the United States. That shows how far each century goes ahead to pitch its tents; 1800 stopped with Kentucky and 1900 has moved on to Manila; 2000 may go around the world and come back to Kentucky again. Who knows? There is little to this Kentucky farm except the fact that Lincoln was born there. It is not much for crops or scenery. There is a rock spring on it and a creek. The muse of history has very little eye either for fertile soil or landscape effects. Battles are usually fought among most unlivin' suroundings, and the immortals are liable to be born almost anywhere except where we would expect them to be born. If we were choosing a spot for one of the great ones to come into the world we would seek all the modern conveniences and a combination of seashore and mountain to furnish inspiration. That merely proves that we know how to raise crops and blooded stock, but we do not know how to raise great men. There is a branch of gettinging that God does not leave to humankind. Hothouse methods may be all right for forcing plants, but they are a failure for forcing genius.

The preservation of this shrine to the memory of Lincoln was made possible by the generosity of Robert J. Collier of Collier's Weekly. There were several enterprising gentlemen who desired the purchase of the farm for advertising purposes, and had it not been for Mr. Collier one of them probably would have succeeded in his shameless design. Among the bidders was a liquor firm that had already prepared posters announcing "Lincoln Birthplace Whisky." The agents of this firm flattered too freely of their own wares, which perturbed Mr. Collier's representative to steal a march on them and bid in the place before they arrived on the scene, for it is a sad and humiliating fact that the farm on which our greatest president was born was allowed to be sold for taxes.

This, coupled with the further reflection that but for the interest and patriotism shown by one man this price less shrine would have been used for selfish and base purposes, should make the American people quick to protect it. When it was too late there would doubtless have been a great cry of indignation which would have increased in pitch as the centenary of Mr. Lincoln's birth approached. We are saved from this humiliation by the thoughtfulness of one man—rather of two, for Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones had advocated buying the shrine before Mr. Collier took the matter up. Two men out of over 80,000,000! It is so God finds his agents, even though men are blind.

The birthplace farm is not the only Lincoln shrine saved from a degraded use. The old log building at New Salem in which Lincoln lived and had his store together with the ground on which the historic village stood was purchased by Mr. William Randolph Hearst and made a present to the Old Salem Chautauqua the second largest Chautauqua in America. A whisky still was also hiding for this to advertise some of its wares. It would seem that the whisky men appreciate the great liberator, whatever may be said for the rest of us.

It is a romantic fact that the only building left of the New Salem in which Mr. Lincoln spent his young manhood is that which he himself occupied. All the rest of the town has disappeared like a dream village, as though with his departure it had performed its function and gone back to the elements, leaving only his cabin as a memento.

At the time Mr. Collier bought "the little farm that raised a man" the historic rock spring from which it took its name had degenerated into a hog wallow, while the cabin in which Lincoln was born had been taken north for show purposes and was housed in a Long Island bresmet. This was rescued from the blight of commercialism, like the farm and sent back from its wanderings to rest in honor in its own place. The journey to Kentucky was one of triumph. The little one room log cabin was escorted to its destination in greater state than most kings and conquerors. The milroads carried it, it flew the Wagonmaster store in New York decorated the car; the governor of Kentucky debilitated an officer and four militiamen to escort the old logs through with safety. Mayor Weaver of Philadelphia received it with honor; Baltimore, through which Lincoln had to pass in secret to keep from being assassinated greeted the cabin that gave him birth with speeches of welcome, at Altoona the school children decked the car with flowers; at Pittsburg the Grand Army took it in charge, at Columbus the mayor and superintendent of schools made stirring addresses; at Indianapolis appropriate exercises were held, and at Louisville former Vice President Stevenson spoke for the state of Illinois and Henry Watterson for the state of Kentucky. One of the striking utterances of Colonel Watterson, who was introduced as "the greatest living student of the life of Lincoln" is worthy of reproduction. Of Lincoln the orator said:

He was inspired of God, for nowhere else could he have acquired that wisdom and virtue. Where did Shakespeare get his genius? Mozart his music? Who wrote the lyrics of the Scotch peasant? As God raised up and inspired them, so did he Lincoln. When, a thousand years hence, the truth of history shall have left no room to doubt, no drama will be followed with deeper feeling than that which tells the story of his life and death. God laid his hands upon these rough hewn logs, and they brought forth a nation hero.

Thus the plain Kentucky cabin, the humblest birthplace of a great soul, since the manger of Nazareth, returned to its home to grace the centennial of that advent which had come to earth through its door. Both the farm and the house were turned over by Mr. Collier to an association headed by Joseph W. Folk of Missouri and having on its board of trustees such representative men as William H. Henry Watterson, Cardinal Gibbons, William H. Taft, Ida M. Tabbell, Jenkin Lloyd Jones, Charles A. Towne, Mark Twain and Albert Shaw. The fund for the work was made a common people's offering, and tens of thousands of these became members and gave each his mite to honor the man who in his origin, words and constant attitude had so signally honored them.

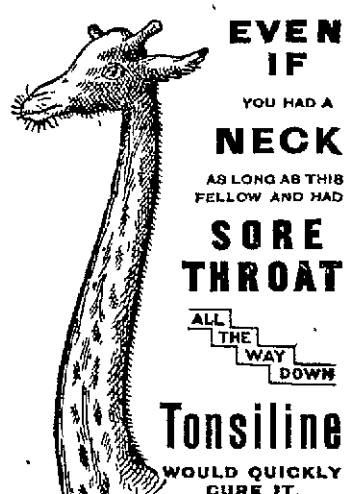

On the farm the little cabin has been placed at the exact spot where it before stood and has been surrounded by a strong and simple edifice, in which it forms the sole exhibit. Thus building, with its Greek columns, stands upon a hill and is approached by a broad sweep of steps leading from a platform from which also descends the path to the old spring. The remainder of the farm has been left as before, even to a gnarled apple tree said to be the last of Tom Lincoln's orchard.

How fortunate it would be if with this revival of interest in the spot that gave Abraham Lincoln birth we could have a little revival of interest in his spirit, his ideals and his aims! He was not alone a man for one crisis but for all time, a deity to the public good, his refusal to permit private considerations to stand in the way of duty and principle, his tender solicitude for the poor and humble and his placing of man above wealth, of humanity above things and of popular rights above institutions, his faith in the masses, his devotion to the doctrine of equality and of the rule of the majority—all of these things are needed now and ever in the republic. What a splendid opportunity this centenary presents to study Lincoln's spirit, the innermost of the man that gives him his hold on the people of his age and all ages!

While associations are making beautiful memorials of the material spots that knew him and are arranging programs to act as the machinery of pride, the form and shell that carry the substance and life why should not the millions of men and women who love Lincoln devote their leisure to a study of his life and utterances and an attempt to define the genius that animated them? Then why not crown all by a resolve to give to the affairs of the nation the same unselfish devotion the same high regard for truth, the same love of the rights of man, the same spirit of righteousness, the same hatred of tyranny, fraud and sham and the same faith in God and the common people that he gave in such full measure, even to the sacrifice of life itself?

If this centenary, this dedication of the birthplace farm, this worldwide ceremony in his praise, could beget a spirit like that it would be of untold benefit to the nation and to the race. Could this people once truly comprehend Lincoln and follow the lines he marked out, they would make of this such a republic as has never been known in the files of time. We have never had a democracy as yet. We have never incarnated in a government the principles of the Golden Rule and the sermon on the mount. Lincoln boded forth both of them. He was the genius of those divine utterances made flesh. Herein was his strength. This it was which made

Rheumatism Cannot Be Cured Unless Uric-O Is Used.

Sudden Death, Heart Failure and Paralysis are Caused by Poisonous Uric and Rheumatic Acids.

The Rheumatic person is skeptical regarding the claims of almost any remedy advertised as a cure for Rheumatism and one can scarcely blame him for being so. All the plasters and liniments combined never actually cured a case of Rheumatism. They may relieve it in one quarter but it is sure to break out somewhere else. The only true way to cure Rheumatism is to drive it from the system, for as long as the Uric and Rheumatic Acid remains in the blood, one is never entirely free from the trouble. Uric-O seeks out the Rheumatic poison in the blood, muscles and kidneys, renders it inert and harmless and drives it out of the system. It is composed of perfect antidotes for the rheumatic acid poison in the system, and the secret of its wonderful success lies in the fact that it is designed to cure Rheumatism only. Uric-O is sold by druggists at 75c and $1.00 the bottle. A liberal sample may be procured by writing to the Smith Drug Company, 230 Smith Building, Syracuse, N. Y. Uric-O is sold and recommended by Graham & Company.

ON PARITY WITH RUSSIAN SERFS

Says Stone of Workers Under Wright Decision.

LABOR QUESTION IS DISCUSSED

Engineers' Chief in Address at Banquet of Economic Club at New York Strongly Denounces Recent Sentence of Comptroller and Others.

New York, Jan. 19.—Organized labor and its relation to efficient democracy was the subject of the after-dinner discussion at the banquet of the Economic Club in this city. The list of speakers included President Harry A. Garfield of Williams college, J. K. Hurdie, M. P.; Charles E. Littlefield, former congressman from Maine, and Warren E. Stone of Cleveland, president of the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

President Garfield took up the educational value of labor organizations. "As a result of their activities," he said, "the demand for compulsory arbitration in some form has been made and will be insisted upon."

Mr. Stone, discussing the sentence imposed upon Samuel Gompers and other labor leaders, said:

"It clearly shows what can happen when a judge with unlimited power in his hands and who is carried away by the important necessity of showing it, is called upon to interpret the law and incidentally furnishes the strongest proof that federal judges should not be appointed for life."

"If his interpretation of the rights guaranteed the working man under our constitution is the correct one, then the working men of America are on a parity with the Russian serf, for they have neither free press nor free speech. Such decisions engender class hatred, undermine the faith of the people in the constitution and have a tendency to destroy the confidence of the laboring classes in the impartiality of our courts."

Keir Hardie spoke on the political aspects of the problem and the part labor must take in the enactment of laws. "I know that the theory of the law is that rich and poor are alike in its eyes, but where the law in ninety-nine cases in a hundred reaches the poor man it misses just the same number of times the rich man who has committed the same offense."

Tang Shao Yi, Special Chinese Envoy Sails for Europe Today.

New York, Jan. 19.—Declaring his satisfaction with the results of his mission in America, Tang Shao Yi, special envoy of the Chinese government to the United States, sailed from here for Europe today.

The visit of the distinguished Chinaman was ostensibly for the purpose of thanking the American government for the remission of part of the indemnity exacted for the Boxer outbreak.

regard, but it is also believed that he made efforts to commit the Washington officials to a treaty of alliance with China. He has failed in his mission if the latter aim was his real purpose, but he showed no evidences of disappointment before leaving American shores.

The withdrawal of Tang Shao Yi accompanies him to Europe. He will spend some time on the other side, paying the respects of his government to various courts and capitals before returning home.

Winner in Poker Game Fatally Wounded in Knife Duel.

Richmond, Ky., Jan. 19.—County Assessor Boyd Wagner was probably fatally and W. D. Oldham, a leading merchant, was seriously wounded in a duel with knives over a card game.

Oldham's threat to stop payment of some of his checks, issued during the game, is said to have caused the fight.
